US secretary of state keeps saying Israeli-Palestinian issue cannot remain unchanged. But what about the situation in ?Syria, Iraq, Libya, Russia, China and Turkey

Like a regular mantra, US Secretary of State John Kerry has a habit of saying that the
.Israeli-Palestinian issue cannot remain unchanged

Strangely enough, he isn't saying that about the conflict in Syria, where the death toll has already crossed the 200,000 mark with people being slaughtered, beheaded and dying in different ways, on its way to the 250,000 mark; he isn't saying that about four million refugees from Syria and 10 million displaced people; he isn't saying that about the Islamic State, which is beheading people and butchering minorities; he isn't saying that about Iraq, which has been torn into pieces, or about Baghdad's airport which is about to fall
.into the hands of jihadist terror
